GUERRILLAS IN HEAVY FIGHTING ON THE HOPEI-SHANTUNG BORDER

CHINESE INFLICT HEAVY CASUALTIES IN NIGHT RAID ON FENGKIU CITY

Seven Thousand Japanese Troops Withdraw From South Shansi And Honan

CHENGCHOW, MAY 5.

MILITARY DESPATCHES RECEIVED HERE REPORT HEAVY FIGHTING BETWEEN CHINESE GUERRILLAS AND JAPANESE FORCES AT LINTSING ON THE HOPEI-SHANTUNG BORDER MIDWAY BETWEEN THE PEIPING-HANKOW AND TIEN-TSIN-PUKOW RAILWAYS.

THE JAPANESE FORCES, CONSISTING OF 400 MEN WITH TWO HEAVY ARTILLERY PIECES, ARE LOCKED IN A GRIM STRUGGLE WITH MOBILE TROOPS, IT IS STATED.

JAPANESE REINFORCEMENTS, RUSHING FROM TAIMING IN SOUTH HOPEI TO THE RESCUE OF BELEAGUERED LINTSING, ARE BEING CHECKED BY CHINESE FORCES.

AT FENGKIU IN NORTH HONAN, OPPOSITE KAIFENG ACROSS THE YELLOW RIVER, THE JAPANESE FORCES ARE REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN REDUCED FROM 2,000 TO ONLY 400 MEN.

THE CHINESE FORCES, IT IS STATED, HAVE SURROUNDED THE CITY FROM MANY SIDES AND ARE CLOSELY WATCHING THE JAPANESE MOVEMENTS.

On the evening of May 2, a detachment of Chinese forces made a night raid on the city and succeeded in inflicting a number of casualties on the Japanese. The raiders retreated again after having completed their mission.

For fear of more Chinese attacks, the Japanese garrison force in Fengkiu have declared martial law and are forbidding Chinese people from entering or leaving the city.

The highway leading from Fengkiu to Changyuan has been damaged at many points by Chinese guerrilla forces, rendering the transportation of Japanese troops and war supplies a dangerous and difficult task.

Japanese motor cars and trucks, it is stated, have now completely disappeared along the highway.

Japanese forces at Poai, the western terminus of the Taokow-Tsinghua line, are hard pressed by the constant attacks of Chinese forces and have made preparations for withdrawal eastward along the railway.

A wide area to the west of Poai is now completely cleared of Japanese invaders and the recapture of Poai by Chinese troops at an early date is expected.

During the last few weeks, more than 7,000 Japanese troops are reported to have been withdrawn to Sinsiang from various parts of south Shansi and north Honan. Quantities of heavy arms, including numerous tanks, anti-aircraft batteries, heavy machine-guns and other military equipments, are also concentrated at Sinsiang.

The much-enamoured Kiyomizu regiment, after suffering repeated reverses in south Shansi, has been replenished with fresh men and is now on its way to Puyang in south Hopei.

Peace and order, it is learned, have been restored in Tsingfeng and Nanlo, two important cities south of Taming which were again recaptured by the Chinese forces a few days ago.—(Central News).

INSURANCE SECRETARY IN CUSTODY

Japanese Police Seize Letters

Tokyo, May 5.

Yokohama detectives yesterday morning raided the residence of Frederick "Fat" Ohara, Resident Secretary for Japan of the London and Liverpool Insurance Company.

They seized correspondence, road maps, films and photographic apparatus and arrested Ohara who is now confined in the police station. He is charged with violation of the Military and Naval Secrets Protection Law.

In the afternoon, the police searched and seized all photographs and correspondence in Ohara's private office in the Tokyo office of the company. The British Consul-General in Yokohama is keeping in touch with the case but has so far been unable to influence the Japanese police.

Foreign circles consider the allegations against Ohara unjustified.—(Reuter).

FRANC STABILISED AT 179 TO THE POUND

CHANGE IN FORTUNES OF FRANCE SHOULD BE WITNESSED

PARIS, MAY 5.

ANNOUNCING THAT THE FRANC WAS BEING FIXED AT 179 TO THE POUND, BELOW WHICH IT WOULD NOT FALL, THE MINISTER FOR FINANCE STATED THAT CONTRARY TO REPORTS IT WAS NOT STABILISATION WHICH WAS DECIDED UPON TODAY BUT AN OPERATION THE OBJECT OF WHICH WAS TO FIRST REACH DE FACTO STABILITY.—(REUTER).

BUSINESSLIKE POLICY

London, May 5.

The city welcomes M. Daladier's broadcast announcement concerning the franc stabilisation and some describe the new policy as most businesslike.

Moreover, as the French Premier has promised to support Britain and the United States, many venture to prophesy that at long last a real change in the fortunes of France should be witnessed.

Well-informed circles applaud M. Daladier's decision to allow the franc to fall to a level at which it can easily be defended, instead of holding the rate as a target for repeated bear attacks. Meanwhile, after initial speculative offerings had pushed down the franc to 179.00 the trend was completely reversed by a rush on the part of bears to cover and the French authorities were called upon to supply what some quarters in London describe as "colossal" demand for francs.

It is generally opined that French control must have acquired a considerable amount of foreign currency this morning in view of the fact that the spot rate was not allowed to appreciate above 178.75.

DEMAND FOR FRANCS

While foreign exchange brokers were working at fever pitch to meet the demand for francs, bullion dealers, paradoxically enough, experienced a large demand for gold of which, in excited dealings, over £1,000,000 worth changed hands.

OUTRAGE IN PEAK HOME

MRS. CHALLINOR DIES FROM STAB WOUNDS

HUSBAND AND HOUSEBOY IN HOSPITAL

While asleep in her home at No. 499, The Peak, Mrs. Sybil Ruby Challinor, the wife of Mr. R. H. Challinor, District Manager of Imperial Chemical Industries (China) Limited, was stabbed to death by a Chinese houseboy in the early hours of yesterday morning.

Mr. Challinor, in going to the rescue of his wife, grappled with the alleged assailant, as a result of which Mr. Challinor sustained stab wounds and was removed to the War Memorial Hospital.

Police were summoned, and on the arrival of Chief Detective-Insp. M. Murphy and Detective-Insp. C. R. Rozeksky they found a houseboy, named Lam Chun, lying on the ground outside the house in a pool of blood. He was sent to the Queen Mary Hospital where he was detained.

Mr. Challinor summoned medical aid prior to the arrival of the police. Dr. J. Durran rushed to the house but Mrs. Challinor was already dead.

According to Mr. Challinor, the alleged assailant ran to the roof of the house and jumped to the ground, following the attack. (The funeral of the late Mrs. Challinor is reported on Page 7).

JAPANESE USE TEAR GAS IN SUNKIAPU

Shantung, May 5.

During the street fighting in Sunkiapu, important town south of Hsiencheng in Anhwei, in the past few days, the Japanese have resorted to the use of dum-dum bullets and tear gas, it is learned.

The Chinese forces were forced to withdraw from the town after many were gassed and wounded by the dum-dum bullets. At present, they are taking up positions in the outskirts of Sunkiapu in preparation for a renewed attack.—(Central News).

CHINESE DAMAGE TRACK

Sian, May 5.

The railway track north and south of Fengchen in eastern Suiyuan on the Peiping-Suiyuan Railway has been damaged by a Chinese cavalry unit during the past few days.

As a result, a Japanese troop train and an armoured train were derailed, causing many deaths among the Japanese troops. Several of the Japanese were captured alive, while more than 100 rifles seized by the Chinese.—(Central News).

PRINCE CHICHIBU ARRIVES SECRETLY IN SHANGHAI

Shanghai, May 5.

Prince Chichibu, eldest brother of the Emperor of Japan, is believed to have arrived in Shanghai secretly yesterday by plane for a two-day visit, says the Shanghai Evening Post and Mercury. He is believed to have been entertained on board the flagship Isumo.

Roads to Hongkew, the journal continues, are roped off leading to the belief that the Prince would inspect part of the Japanese occupied area.—(Reuter).

STRIKE SETTLED

It is understood that the Douglas Steamship Company have complied with the requests of the officers employed on their vessels. The Hal Tan sailed for Swatow at 11 p.m. last night.

Briton's Courageous Attempt To Rescue Chinese Youth From Drowning Off Bund

Mr. John Huxley Dives In Cold Muddy Water

Shanghai, May 5.

Hundreds of Chinese and foreigners lined the Bund this morning to watch a Briton, Mr. John Huxley, courageously but unsuccessfully attempt to rescue a drowning Chinese youth. The body was not recovered despite Mr. Huxley's repeated efforts.

Mr. Huxley was on a tender on his way down-river when, thirty yards from the jetty, he saw a Chinese struggling in the river ten yards from the jetty. He pulled off his coat and dived in but the tender's wash swamped the victim who had by that time disappeared.

Mr. Huxley dived three times in an attempt to locate the drowning man in the cold muddy water but could not, the strong current having sucked the man under and carried him away.

A foreign naval launch and United States marines ashore tried unsuccessfully to help with grappling hooks. Apparently, the youth was pushed off the jetty by the jostling crowd.

Mr. Huxley's home town is Swindon, Wiltshire.—(Reuter).

Mr. Huxley is well-known locally, being manager of the Shanghai aquatic team that visited the Colony in September, 1935.

S.M.C. DEMANDS BY JAPANESE MUST BE RESISTED

London, May 5.

Referring to the Japanese demands to the Municipal Council in Shanghai, Mr. Burkill speaking at the China Association, drew attention to the conspicuously larger share of local taxation paid by the British as compared to the Japanese community. So long as the proportions of taxation remained as shown in these figures or as near to them the Japanese demands must be resisted.

"We British have made a modern Shanghai and we see no reason why the fact should be ignored and overridden by the Japanese authorities," he added.—(Reuter).

FRENCH LINER NOW TOTAL LOSS

Storeroom Fire At Le Havre

Paris, May 5.

The 25,000-ton liner Lafayette, one of the largest French steamers on the North Atlantic service, caught fire in Le Havre yesterday and is a total loss. The ship had been in drydock yesterday morning.

The fire broke out at 9.45 p.m. in the storeroom and spread with alarming rapidity. All fire brigades in Le Havre were still fighting against the flames in the morning. The fire was caused, it has been ascertained in the meantime, by the carelessness of one of the ship's crew who, it is believed, let a lighted match fall in the store-room which was immediately set on fire.

After trying desperately for hours to save the ship, 30 firemen were trapped and for some time it seemed that it would be impossible to reach them. However, other firemen working desperately, managed to save their comrades from this dreadful death. No lives were lost, although about 100 persons were on board when the fire broke out.—(Transocean).

FASHION NEWS FROM NEW YORK

Loose Full Frocks And Frivolous Accessories

New York
The static season has set in, and, contrary to the belief that there is nothing more to tell about what is happening in the fashion world, it really is the time of the season when trends become definite and authentic fashion news. Women finally settle down to knowing what they really consider the best of the season.

The younger members of the family, having avidly read all the fashion reviews, and pressed their eager noses against shop windows, are ready to say what they want. It is the final sifting of ideas, and American designers are happy to find they have pleased some of the people. American women seem to have chosen the softer silhouette and have gone completely feminine.

DAYTIME FROCKS

One is more aware of the trend towards fullness in afternoon frocks than in any other clothes. As a matter of fact, I think one might refer to it as the "loose lines" trend. One of our favourite American designers has been responsible for this innovation in style. Unless loose clothes are just right and colour combinations are perfect one is apt to look dowdy. It is a style with which much care of detail must be taken.

One particularly nice frock has a deep corseted waistline, blouse-back, and frontfull skirt. A modified blouse-type dress has, the stitched pleats starting from the yoke and stitched to the hem. The contrasting velvet sash, pulled very tight through the waist, gives a slight "blouse" to the dress. Another has the sculptured waist-line and hip with all the fullness brought to the front, and another an umbrella-pleated skirt on a long bodice. I do not want to slight the tunic silhouette, fitted to a stem-like slimmness, and a full knife-pleated skirt beneath, because it is extremely important. Colours are delightful; pottery shades in rough silks, brilliant vibrant prints, and thinnest of sheer wools.

One of the most important advances of the year is the realization of the necessity for a good basic dress. At openings, on mannequins in the large shops, everywhere, in fact, where any weight in fashions is carried, a point was made of the change-

Round The Shops

LANE CRAWFORD'S have on display this week some very pretty evening gowns (washable and of very good quality materials) in a big variety of shades and floral designs. There are also a number of dresses in white and coloured lace, together with evening bags and shoes as accessories.

MAYO'S have just received a marvellous selection in evening wear as well as afternoon and day dresses. There are also some very snappy beach togs—slacks in linen, with cute little jackets to match! The new consignment of hats received by this store surpasses all the previous ones, and for those who know what smart hats Mayo's turn out, this is saying something!

RIVELLE. New hats, bags and novelties, together with useful trim, dresses for the hot summer afternoons—these are but a few of the nice things on display at Revell's this week.

There are some three and four piece suits for the beach in cool cotton; and last, but not the least, there is displayed a small but select number of evening gowns.

The designer's imagination has been allowed to run riot and the jewelry grows madder and madder.

Does Your Neck Give You Away?

A woman may fight, advancing years with gallantry, making-up well, having her hair kept in perfect order, and dressing smartly—but still be "given away" by that treacherous laxity of the muscles of the chin and neck that prompt such remarks as—"Ah! She's not so young as she looks."

When this muscle-sagging business begins, it is almost unnoticeable, but gradually it becomes evident in a most disconcerting way.

I advise all women with pretty chin and neck lines (and most of us start out with these advantages) to guard them very carefully. Don't wait until unsightly creases and scragginess set in, but give this particular section of your beauty treatment its fair share of attention and all will be well.

If your neck has the lovely line and your chin the charming contour, give them nightly massages with a good skin food or almond oil, leaving on just a thin film of your cream over-night, and in the morning dab on some toning lotion in the form of your favourite astringent, and that's all you need do. Simple, isn't it?

If you have any doubts about the contour of chin and neck, look at yourself critically in a mirror, preferably one of those triple affairs in which you get three different views.

If your suspicions are only too well founded, invest in some cream with a turtle oil base, buy a muscle panner, or use a spring shoe-tree, and use this vigorously under the chin to tone up the lazy muscles.

KEEP YOUR CHIN UP

Give a little extra time each evening to your massage, and practise head-turning and neck-bending at odd moments to help you to hold your chin well.

To do this you just hold your head erect, then turn it to the left as far as you can, then to the right, then bend your neck forward, and then backward. Do this exercise two or three times a day, about six times each movement.

The wearing of a well-fitting chin strap (obtainable at most of the larger chemists or stores with the beauty departments) helps quite a lot in preserving a firm chin line.

For crepiness of the skin of the neck, the best thing is to feed the skin with copious smoothings-in of really good cold cream or skin food.

Use four fingers of each hand for this, and cup your hand slightly, using the left and right hand alternately. Once the skin has coarsened like this, persistence is necessary to get it back into its former smooth condition.

MINIATURE MIRRORS

Dress designers are making much use of silver and mirror glass to decorate evening gowns. An effect of "summer lightning" is given by narrow silver appliques sewn on by hand, with the vertical spikes arranged in uneven lengths. Sleeve embroideries in mirror glass cut into various shapes and sizes are attractive. So also are the newest buttons of mirror glass, which have the additional advantage from the woman's point of view that she can just see her nose in them for powdering purposes!

DIAMOND DAZZLE MAKES BIG APPEAL TO WOMEN

A woman's jewel-case nearly always contains more diamond jewellery than anything else, for diamonds can be worn with any clothes. Perhaps that is why nine out of ten engagement rings are set with diamonds.

Deep blue diamonds are very rare. A flawless blue diamond is deep sapphire in colour, but far more translucent. Diamonds can also be yellow, pink, violet, green, brown, or black. A blue-white diamond, clear as distilled water, is the finest stone available and the most valuable, apart from rare coloured diamonds.

The next grade of diamond is called "top-white." This is colourless, yet has not quite the intense white fire of the blue-white diamond. It is the colour of crystal. Diamonds with a tinge of yellow are not as valuable as the white diamond.

The value of a diamond depends also on the quality of the cutting. A round, brilliant-cut diamond has up to 58 facets on the front of the stone, and 24 facets on the back. Emerald-cut diamonds are square, with fewer facets and a very noticeable "table," which is the flat surface on the front of the stone. These square stones are often flanked by the narrow, rectangular baguette diamonds, looking like an elongated emerald-cut stone. Tiny brilliant-cut diamonds are used for small eternity rings or for "massed" effects.

Diamonds are mined almost exclusively within the British Empire. Eighty per cent. of them come from South Africa.

GERMAN trade figures show that imports for 1937 rose 385-12 per cent. from Europe and 7-12 per cent. from overseas. The excess of imports over exports declined from £45,535,666 to £20,510,000.

ALL German forests have now been included in the official timber-selling scheme, because of the great demand for wood for the production of artificial wool and other synthetic materials.

"Snow White" Now Inspires Wealth of New Fashions

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," the first full-length feature produced by Walt Disney, creator of the much-beloved Mickey Mouse and Silly Symphonies, has also indirectly inspired new styles in feminine apparel.

Cartier, the fashionable Fifth Avenue jeweler, is selling a link bracelet with individual charms of the Seven Dwarfs and Snow White in enamel and gold. This trinket, also on sale at high class jewelers in metropolitan centers, retails for approximately $100. Moderate priced jewelry featuring the fascinating characters of this folk tale by the Brothers Grimm is being manufactured by Trifari, Krussman, & Fishel, Inc. of New York.

Interesting and new are the silk prints manufactured by Colombeau of Paris, featuring the Dwarfs, Snow White and the Prince, in all-over and spaced designs in all the newest spring shades as well as black on white and white on black.

Paquin has created a charming afternoon frock, which could double as an informal dinner dress, of the Snow White print in soft tones of rust red, white and beige on a black background. The dress, with its simple lines, has a full, swinging skirt edged with a deep band of silver fox. Ardure has also created a dress of the print combining it with white all-jersey.

Several New York department stores are selling the printed fabrics in their dress goods department for $3.50 and $4.50 per yard. Inexpensive silk and rayon prints, manufactured by the Chopak Textile Co., are featured by prominent stores at 75 cents and 85 cents per yard. Those prints are being used by various manufacturers for children's dresses; junior and misses wear; for culottes and play suits, blouses and children's hand bags.

Arthur Bell & Co. is manufacturing cotton "Snow White" prints which will soon be on sale at leading department stores and dry goods counters.

Florence Reichman, one of New York's foremost milliners, has designed hats based on those worn by the Little Dwarfs, Snow White, the Prince and other characters.

ability in costume with a basic frock. Generally black or blue, without trimming, or with trimming that is removable at a moment's notice, you changed your accessories with your mood.

IMPORTANCE OF JEWELRY

This brings us to one of the outstanding features of this year's trend in styles, the constantly growing importance of accessories. Your gloves, your jewelry, your scarves and sashes, with any little hats to match in lovely fondant-like colours; one, a tiny elfin cap, in grograin with a wide sash to match, or, another little cap, with devil's ears, and a matching sash in Paisley silk. These are the things that matter most to your costume.

The gay, dashing hat worn by the fairy prince in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" was copied to create this charming beret worn by Lucille Ball, RKO Radio player who will support Irene Dunne and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in "The Joy of Loving." The hat is fashioned from crimson felt, Prince's with a quill of blue-grey felt—a much cleverer note than the conventional leather.

"Snoozy" has a cuff brim and the crown draped to one side. "Happy" is of bright blue suede with a tongue-shaped crown and a narrow cuff brim. "Doe" has a roll edge and high draped crown trimmed with belting. "Dopey" is an off-the-face model, with a slim, dunce-type crown. "Happy" also features a drooping crown and "Bashful" has a wavy brim, a pointed crown folded down and a strap under the chin.

"Snow White's" demure little bonnet is of white straw trimmed with a band and bow of an exquisite new shade, "Snow-White-Blue." The Prince's hat is a dashing tan with a bluish grey feather made of suede. The "Hanselman" is a typical sports hat with narrow forward line and per quill.

One chooses one's jewelry to suit a definite costume; fruits and vegetables, flowers and nuts, clustered together in gaily coloured formations, the chunkier the better, to form bracelets and necklaces and lapel pins. I do not know how it is managed, but these frivolous baubles somehow take on an air of smart dignity with the right frock.

Every one should have two or three jackets in a wardrobe. These range from simple little boleros to fitted, finger-length jackets. Materials used run the gamut from gaily coloured felt to softest silks. Very often your jacket matches your hat, your scarf, and your gloves, and gives a new personality and a distinctly different mood when worn over your simple black dress.

TREAT FOR LOVERS OF DICKENS' WORKS

With an all-star cast fairly scintillating with "big names," one of the most elaborate screen presentations of recent years opens today at the Majestic Theatre.

It is "David Copperfield," Charles Dickens' favourite novel, which comes to life with its myriad of interesting characters through the medium of the film.

W. C. Fields creates the immortal Wilkins Micawber, Esq., the improvident but happy wastrel who is "always" expecting something to turn up.

Frank Lawton, who distinguished himself in "Cavalcade," plays the adult David Copperfield, and the child role is played by one of the brilliant juvenile discoveries of recent years, a ten-year-old lad named Freddie Bartholomew.

WHO TOLD YOU THAT?

A man walked into the grocery store. "I want all the rotten eggs you have," he demanded.

"What do you want with stale eggs?" asked the clerk.

"Are you going to see the new comedian at the theatre tonight?"

"Sh-sh-sh," hissed the buyer nervously. "I am the new comedian."

ART OF A TRAGIC GENIUS

AMADEO MODIGLIANI EXHIBITION

Amadeo Modigliani is one of the tragic legends of Montparnasse and one of its glories. A very good show of his work in London recently reasserts a genius that had to struggle against its possessor as well as against the world.

Born at Leghorn in 1884, Modigliani arrived in Paris at the age of 22. His death in 1920 was hastened by drugs, drink and malnutrition. During his lifetime pictures were unsaleable and an object of scandal, having to be removed from a dealer's window. They are now among the most highly priced products of the modern school.

Time has already blotted out many reputations of the same date as his; it makes his more secure. Despite his weaknesses, and when artifice and imitation thrived in the painting round him, his creation remained original and real.

It is easy to see, in masterpieces like "La Jolie Epiciere" and "Le Jeune Apprenti," that he adapted to his style Cezanne's cubism and Negro sculpture. But the way he put them together, the human life of his figures, that brings their beauty of design, and the soft music of his colour—these were his own, and genius.

Amazing subtleties appear behind the apparent simplicity; such things as the sheer weight in "Hebruterie Assise," the logic of pattern in "Jeanne," or the spacing on the canvas in "M. Zborowski."

REMARKABLE ACOUSTICS

The open air theatre at Orange, in France, with seating accommodation for 8,000 spectators, was built in the days of the Roman Emperor Hadrian, and is still used as a theatre.

Here every summer a number of plays and operas are produced, and the fact that M. Jacques Rouche, Director of the Paris Opera, has just been chosen as its manager gives some idea of its importance.

The acoustics of this open-air theatre are remarkable, and architects of today have been unable to fathom the secret of construction by which members of the audience in any part can hear every word. This effect is obtained by the stone wall at the back of the stage, and tourists visiting the Roman theatre are surprised at the remarkable echo, for a whisper from the stage can be heard in the back row.

There is a movement in France to make the theatre at Orange a home of drama and music, such as Stratford in England, and Salzburg in Austria. M. Georges Brissac, one of the leaders of this movement, says, "By logic and reason, Orange should become an international shrine for the pilgrims of music, drama and art."

Orange is located in the heart of the Gallo-Roman province, the cradle of our civilisation. With its radiant sun, Orange has an ideal climate, as it has its past, from Marcus Aurelius to Charlemagne, from William of Orange to Louis XIV.—all this should stimulate the Fine Arts authorities to make of Orange a universal centre for the best drama and music of the age, not only of France but of all countries.

A Kiss For Grumpy

Grumpy trying not to look pleased as Snow White bestows a kiss on the top of his bald head.

SNOW WHITE'S SEVEN DWARFS

The seven sterling dwarfs in Walt Disney's first feature-length production, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," will not be strange personalities to anyone viewing them. Each represents a type of human being in this fascinating production in technicolor which RKO Radio distributes to the world's picture houses.

It will open at the Queen's and Alhambra Theatres today.

Doc, the self-appointed leader, is self-important and pompous. He has a habit of getting his words and ideas mixed and of searching for the right word in vain. He's overly gracious and very determined in his own mind until an important decision is necessary, when he becomes so nervous that he can't make any decision at all.

General Amusements, Ltd., operating the Queen's and Alhambra Theatres, reports unprecedented advance bookings for "Snow White."

A record-breaking run is anticipated, and the Management urges patrons not only to book early but also to be in their seats promptly, so as not to inconvenience other patrons or miss any part of this truly beautiful film.

Happy is a fat roly-poly little fellow with a perpetual smile and a bright cheery voice.

Sleepy sees life through half-closed eyes and talks always through a yawn. He talks little, but when he does say something it is straight to the point, even though he doesn't know it.

Grumpy, the real leader of the group, is "agin" everything. His chief hate is "wimmin." He is grouchy, a crab, and yet, much to his disgust, he has a very soft heart under the veneer. When trouble arises, it is Grumpy who acts first.

Sneezy is subject to hay fever and talks through his nose. He always sneezes at the wrong time.

Dopey is a lovable, slightly barmy fellow who gets a great kick out of life. He is shy and mischievous.

Beastful is kind-hearted and willing, and an incurable romantic. He is especially shy, however, in the presence of Snow White.

THE ESTATE of the late Philip de Lamoignon, painter to European Royalty, who died in November, is valued at £141,000.

DISTINGUISHED GATHERING

A.D.C. Presents New Play

In response to many requests the Hong Kong Amateur Dramatic Club has decided to produce another play this season. A production so late as May is an innovation, and the A.D.C. hopes it will be supported by the public to an extent that will encourage future ventures during the warmer months of the year.

The play selected is "Distinguished Gathering," a play in three acts by James Parish. A strong cast has been assembled, and several of the players selected are making their first appearance on the Hong Kong Stage.

The first performance will be at the China Fleet Club Theatre on Wednesday May 18, and the last on Saturday May 21. Booking is now open at Anderson Music Co., St. George Building, Ice House Street, and those intending to be present will greatly assist the management by booking early.

GRIPPS' STARS' FAREWELL

Sylvia and Christian, the two Continental dancers who have attained extraordinary popularity at the Hong Kong Hotel, are leaving soon for New York, where they are scheduled to open at the International Club early in June.

Having created something approaching a record for the length of their stay in the Colony, they will make their farewell appearances tomorrow evening.

Snakes In The Butter

Startling revelations about the adulteration of Bihar's food supplies were made in the Legislative Assembly.

Mr. M. Jalli, a trader in hides and skins, who spoke from "personal experience," stated that clarified butter was often adulterated with the fat of huge pythons from the jungles of Nepal.

He also alleged that flour was mixed with powdered bones and other matter.

The allegations were made during a debate on Bihar's public health.

ANGLO-JAPANESE CUSTOMS AGREEMENT NOT BINDING ON CHINA

International Law Expert
Says Has No Legal Effect

CUSTOMS STAFF OPPOSITION

Hankow, May 5.
The Anglo-Japanese agreement in connection with the Chinese Customs issue, recently concluded in Tokyo, is not legally binding on China, as any understanding reached between three countries affecting China's sovereignty has no legal effect upon her from the standpoint of international law, declared an expert of international law in an interview with the Central News yesterday.

Wedding At Doorn

Ex-Kaiser's Grandson
And Grand Duchess
Kyra

Amsterdam, May 5.
The religious wedding ceremony of Prince Louis Ferdinand of Hohenzollern, second son of the German ex-Crown Prince, and the Grand Duchess Kyra of Russia, took place in the grand hall of Chateau de Doorn at noon yesterday.

Besides the near relatives of the couple other guests were present, including Crown Princess Juliana of Holland and her consort, Prince Bernhard, the Royal Commissioner of the Province of Utrecht and the Burgomaster of Doorn.

After the solemnisation of the marriage the wedding breakfast took place at the Chateau when the ex-Kaiser delivered a speech wishing the young couple happiness in their married life. The festivities were of simple character, according to the statements made at the Chateau. The Grand Duchess wore the wedding dress of her Imperial grandmother while the Prince was in the uniform of the German Air Force. (Transocean).

RUMANIA AND MINORITIES

Bucharest, May 5.
King Carol has decreed the reorganisation of the Minorities Office.

Function of the Office will be to supervise application of administrative and legislative measures in connection with minorities and to propose solution for minority problems.

A new chief of the Office will be appointed with the title of General Commissioner for Minorities. He will be under the direct control of the Premier. (Reuter).

ILL-TREATMENT OF BRITISH JEWS

London, May 5.
Questioned on the alleged ill-treatment of British subjects of Jewish race in Vienna, Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, told the House of Commons that His Majesty's Government had taken action in all cases in which they considered it practical to do so. (British Wireless).

Citing as a precedent, the agreement reached between Soviet Russia and Japan concerning the transfer of Soviet rights in the Chinese Eastern Railway, he said that the Chinese Government had then issued a statement refusing to recognise any legal effect of the agreement.

In the present case, since the Anglo-Japanese agreement was reached without China's consent, it was to be considered as an infringement upon her sovereignty, though Great Britain had declared that it was intended to regulate Customs matters in areas occupied by Japanese forces during the period of hostilities.

In the present circumstances the Chinese Government, stated the expert, should reiterate her attitude to uphold the integrity of the Chinese Customs Administration and request Great Britain to continue to respect such integrity. (Central News).

STAFF OBEYS CENTRAL GOVERNMENT

Chinese and foreign members of the Chinese Maritime Customs staff in Shanghai will only take orders from the Central Government and will strongly oppose the changing of the National flag on top of the Customs House, according to a special dispatch received by the Lih Pao, Hong Kong.

This is the keynote of an interview given by a responsible official of the Shanghai Customs, who added that the existing tariff rates could not be altered without the full consent and approval of the Central Government.

CUSTOMS HISTORY

The official declared that the Shanghai Customs has had a history of 98 years, and the Superintendent of Customs holds merely an honorary position and has no power to interfere with the internal operations of the administration.

The Shanghai Customs will not change its present system, and the Inspector-General of Customs will continue to maintain the integrity of the Chinese Maritime Customs administration, he further stated. (Central News).

ANXIOUS NOTE BENEATH ROME REASSURANCES

Mussolini-Hitler Parley Causes Speculation

Rome, May 5.
No weakening of the Rome-Berlin Axis has been revealed in conversations between Signor Benito Mussolini and Herr Adolf Hitler, according to officials of both sides. A somewhat anxious note, however, may be discerned in this reassurance.

While Italians as a whole received the news of the Anschluss between Austria and Germany with alarm, well-informed Italian quarters claim it has not diminished the strategic position on the Brenner Pass, especially if Herr Hitler keeps his word and does not fortify the Austrian side of the frontier.

German circles do not admit that the problem of the Sudeten Germans in Czechoslovakia has been discussed between the two dictators, except purely in a consultative sense, and declare this matter does not concern any country outside Czechoslovakia and Germany.

It is believed, however, that Signor Mussolini, while prepared to adopt eventually a policy of neutrality toward moderate German claims, will lend his diplomatic support to the British and France in their attempt to arrange a modus vivendi which will postpone, if it will not solve, the issue.

ITALY'S HAND STRENGTHENED
It is pointed out that events since the last meeting of the dictators have strengthened Italy's hand, and instead of Italy going to Germany hat in hand, so to speak, to ask for support in the Mediterranean, Germany has now come with a steel helmet on its head to ask for Italy's acquiescence to any German plan in Central Europe.

VIOLENCE IN SHANGHAI

Britain Making
Representations

London, May 6.
Questioned in the House of Commons about complaints by British residents in the International Settlement in Shanghai that incidents in involving violence by the Japanese military authorities to persons and property of foreigners were of frequent occurrence, Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, said his attention had been drawn to this complaint.

His Majesty's Ambassador in Tokyo, who had instructions to take up all these matters urgently, had made energetic representations to the Japanese Government. (British Wireless).

BRITISH ARMS TO CHINA

London, May 5.
The total value of arms, ammunition and military and naval stores exported from the United Kingdom to China between June 1 last and the end of March was £204,908. (British Wireless).

CZECH PROBLEM WILL NOT GO TO LEAGUE

Mr. Chamberlain's
Reply In Commons

London, May 5.
The Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, speaking in the House of Commons declined the suggestion made by the Conservative member, Mr. S. V. T. Adams, that the League of Nations should be asked to mediate between the Sudeten Germans and the Czechoslovakian Government.

Mr. Chamberlain gave as his reason his belief that intervention by the League of Nations would not lead to any useful result. Mr. Adams then asked whether it was clear to the Prime Minister that Czechoslovakia's independence would be definitely destroyed if one was to give way to Herr Hitler.

Mr. Chamberlain said that might or might not be true but did not affect his answer. To a further question as to whether he was convinced that Berlin really wished a peaceful and reasonable settlement of the Sudeten German question, Mr. Chamberlain did not reply. (Transocean).

DALADIER TAKES STEPS TO PROTECT FRANC

Reaffirms Attachment To Tripartite Agreement

Paris, May 5.
In a broadcast speech last night, the Prime Minister, M. Edouard Daladier, announced devaluation of French currency. Since M. Daladier several times emphasised that in future the French business world and subscribers to the forthcoming national defence loan had to be protected against further depreciation of the currency, the revaluation now announced appears to bear the character of permanent stabilisation. (Transocean).

STIRRING ADDRESS

Paris, May 4.
Premier Daladier, in a radio broadcast tonight, alluded to the settlement of labour disputes and big strikes in France through the goodwill of the employers and workers.

M. Daladier said that France's second problem was an external one and arose from the divisions of Europe which, instead of uniting, was unnecessarily arming.

Painting "a grave situation which could not be allowed to continue," the Premier said: "I want to tell the country the truth, which is that our economy and hard-hit legitimate profits are tending to disappear and short-time unemployment is increasing throughout the state. Our trade balance is impoverishing us and our production figures are humiliating for the French people. Our economy has drained its life-blood.

"The state of the budget is inevitably unbalanced, and Treasury needs are draining national savings, lowering public credit, drying up private credit and menacing the credit of our currency."

TO PROTECT CURRENCY
M. Daladier emphasised the necessity of fixing a monetary level which would finally shelter the franc from the attacks launched against it for several years.

He had therefore decided to stabilise the franc on a basis where it could be effectively defended. This decision had been taken within the framework of the Three-Power Agreement, to which the French Government remained closely attached.

At the conclusion of his broadcast he urged that the country's savings could be invested in national currency not only without the fear of new devaluation but also with the hope of a possible increased value of the franc. (Reuter).

CABINET COUNCIL

Paris, May 5.
An unexpected meeting of the Cabinet was called this morning, and it is understood that the tripartite monetary agreement was discussed. It is believed modification of the agreement was considered, and if conversations which the British and French Ambassadors are at present holding in Washington are concluded satisfactorily, a big French national defence loan will be launched simultaneously with a declaration by the signatories of the tripartite agreement. (Reuter).

178 TO THE POUND

Paris, May 5.
It is understood that the new rate of the franc will be between 177 and 178 to the pound sterling. (Reuter).

WASHINGTON STATEMENT

Washington, May 5.
After making the announcement that the United States, Britain and France had decided to continue the tripartite monetary agreement, the Secretary of Treasury, Mr. Henry Morgenthau, said: "We feel that what the French Treasury proposes to do, comes within the spirit of the tripartite agreement." (Reuter).

TRIBUTE PAID TO REV. FATHER MAESTRINI

Presentation Made From Parish

Valedictory addresses and a presentation were made to the Rev. Father Maestrini, Rector of St. Teresa's Church, Kowloon, on the occasion of his transfer to Hong Kong as Secretary to His Lordship Bishop Valtorta.

Speaking on behalf of all the Associations of the Parish, Mr. A. F. Osmund, President of the Apostleship of Prayer, said:—The duty has fallen on me to address you on behalf of all the Associations of this parish. We have gathered here tonight in full force to bid you farewell on your transfer to the Cathedral to take up a more important post as private secretary to His Lordship Bishop Valtorta.

During the absence of Father Granelli in Italy to recuperate you took up the post of Rector of this parish for about four years and during this period I am very glad to mention that under your able and zealous management great improvements were made.

In conclusion, I will ask you, in the name of all the Associations which subscribed so liberally, to accept this cheque as a token of our appreciation for the valuable assistance you have rendered to us.

FR. MAESTRINI REPLIES

In accepting the present, Father Maestrini said:—

"It is with mixed feeling of the deepest gratitude and sincere regret that I am here tonight, once more in your midst. Feelings of gratitude for the spontaneous, cordial, sincere way by which you have so kindly gathered to bid me farewell; but feelings of the deepest regret at the same time because this very ceremony brings more vividly to my mind the fact that I am no more attached to this beloved parish where I have worked for about four years. Four years which I do not hesitate to call the best years of my life.

You have so kindly thanked me for the very little that I have done while I was with you, but I feel in duty bound to thank you after God for any good which may have been accomplished. I have to thank first of all Rev. Fr. Granelli and I am glad that I have an occasion for doing so publicly both during the time of his presence and of his absence. He has been the inspiring guide and a real father in the first steps in my pastoral life. My task in this parish has been made much easier by the excellent way he organised our congregation in the two years which ran from the opening of this Church to his departure for Italy. To me fell the easy task of reaping the harvest, but to him the more laborious one of sowing the seed, and consequently his also is the greater merit. I am glad therefore to avail myself of this opportunity to thank Rev. Fr. Granelli for his constant support, encouragement and guidance.

I want to assure you also that in spite of my shortcomings I have always loved this parish with all my heart, that I have always loved and love you all without distinction of race or class and that since the very first day when I was appointed to this parish, I have constantly devoted all my energies and abilities to its welfare and prosperity.

You have been so kind as to present me with a souvenir which I accept and appreciate as a token of your affection, but I want to assure you that I need no souvenir to help me to remember you. Your memory, dearly beloved friends, is deeply engraved in my heart and no time, no other human factor will ever cancel it to the end of my days.

The Rev. A. Granelli, Rector of St. Teresa's Church, then spoke on the merits of Fr. Maestrini, after which three cheers and a "tiger" were called for.

Among those present were:—Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen, Dr. and Mrs. B. de Sousa, Rev. Fr. M. Orlando, successor to Rev. Fr. Maestrini, Rev. Fr. D. Pallo, Mr. L. A. Barton, and Mr. Chan Yap-yu. Also members of the 13th. Kowloon Scouts and Cubs, the St. Teresa's Choir, Children of Mary, and members of other associations of the parish.

The forthcoming marriage is announced, between Mr. Mario Americo Prata, clerk in the Peninsula Hotel, and Miss Aluria Ng, of Hok Ming 5th Lane second floor, Honan, Canton.

NOTED CHINESE CARTOONIST ARRIVES

MR. JACK CHEN

Mr. Jack Chen, noted Chinese cartoonist and critic arrived by the President Coolidge at the conclusion of a world tour in charge of an exhibition of modern Chinese graphic art. He is on his way to Hankow.

In Moscow, London, Edinburgh, Paris, New York, Boston, San Francisco and other centres this first exhibit of the new art of China roused tremendous interest and won the acclaim of leading critics. Several thousand dollars were collected by the exhibit for medical relief in China.

Mr. Chen has returned to China with exhibition of graphic art dedicated to the struggle of the Chinese people by English and American artists from the American Artists Congress and the British Artists International Association. This exhibition will be presented to the public shortly in this Colony and will then be taken to Canton and Hankow.

Mr. Jack Chen is the younger son of Dr. Eugene Chen, and began his artistic career at the age of 17 by drawing in the "Peoples Tribune," Hankow. (China Information Service).

CHIEF JUSTICE GOING ON LEAVE

His Honour the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, leaves on May 27 for six months' leave.

Lady MacGregor will be leaving with him, and they are expected to be back a few weeks before Christmas.

During his absence, His Honour Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell, Puisne Judge, will act as Chief Justice, while Mr. E. H. Williams, Assistant Attorney-General will be the Acting Puisne Judge.

REV. H. W. BAINES

The following is taken from the current issue of the Andrian (St. Andrew's Church monthly magazine).

The Rev. H. W. Baines has made an unusually great number of friends during his four years in Hong Kong. He will be sadly missed. It is one of the misfortunes of ministerial life in general, and most of all of ministerial life abroad, that one has time to make warm friends and treasured friendships, and to learn to value people greatly, only to have to part from them.

But those who have been privileged to know Mr. Baines will be sorry at his going, and though they may never meet him again, will have gained something from their friendship, with him that they can never lose.

We wish him a good voyage, and when his fiancée is able to join him in England, we wish to them both every blessing, and all possible happiness in their life together.

CHINA IS STRONGER

MUCH PRAISE has been given to China's soldiers for their gallant and effective resistance to the Japanese invaders. And deservedly so.

At the same time it should not be overlooked that China's newly discovered vitality is not only revealed in matters political and military but is also evident in many other fields.

Roused by the brutalities of the Japanese soldiers, who kill, burn, rape and loot as they go, the Chinese masses have boldly risen to engage their enemies in guerrilla warfare. Their co-operation has made possible many Chinese military exploits in different sectors.

As a result of the last decade's abnormal growth, most of China's modern industrial plants, before the war broke out, were situated in the coastal cities or along the lower reaches of the Yangtze.

Today practically every one of them has been destroyed by Japanese shells and bombs or removed to Japan. But are the Chinese people discouraged? The answer is definitely in the negative.

Far from being discouraged, the people and the Government are working together in closest co-operation for the development of new industrial areas in the South-Western Provinces where natural resources are abundant.

NEW LINES of communication and transportation are being rapidly laid down and new electric plants are being installed in the interior cities away from any immediate threat from Japanese planes.

Following the general trend of moving to the hinterland, many Chinese universities and colleges, with their buildings razed to the ground by the invading hordes, are beginning afresh in such cities

JAPANESE BOMB
CHUNGSHANMany Casualties
In Solo Raid

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Macao, May 4.

A lone Japanese plane reconnoitred over the north of Chungshan Island soon after 5 p.m. today and dropped several bombs on Cheng Chau and Shekkl, causing many casualties among the inhabitants of these two towns.

According to reports arriving here, the Japanese plane made its appearance over the locality at about 5.20 p.m., dropping its first bomb on Cheng Chau. A few minutes later it appeared over Cheng Tai, a small town across the river from Shekkl, and bombed a brick factory. The workmen at the time were enjoying their dinner and the bomb fell into their midst, killing several of them.

According to eye-witnesses, two coolies jumped into the river for safety, whereupon the Japanese raider circled back and let loose with its machine-gun, one of the coolies being riddled with bullets while he was in the water.

Following this, the plane flew over Shekkl where it dropped another bomb. A public latrine near the Macao-Shekkl bus terminus was struck by this last missile. Three motor-buses, which were standing nearby, received the brunt of the explosion.

Chinese soldiers from atop houses in the vicinity opened fire at the plane with their machine-guns without effect, the plane then returning southward to its base.

One of the victims, a driver of one of the Macao-Shekkl buses, was brought into Macao and taken to one of the local hospitals for first aid.

as Chungking, Kwelyang, Sian and Kunning.

The motto of the Chinese educational authorities is: War or no war, the universities must go on.

On the foodstuff front, the guidance of the Government authorities, are labouring doubly hard to produce more to feed the fighting units as well as the great civilian masses.

For the same purpose, large numbers of refugees from the war zones are being helped to migrate to places where there is cultivable land and where they can start all over again with official subsidies and other assistance.

CHINESE STUDENTS, sometimes unjustly branded as literary idlers, have proved their metal by actively participating in the campaign of defending their country.

Thousands of them may be found either at the front or in the villages and rural towns, preaching the gospel of armed resistance and helping to organise the masses for mobile warfare against the invaders.

With the war assuming a larger scale every day, hundreds of Chinese women and girls have left their homes to take up war-time services. Many have become nurses while others are working among the soldiers, singing, sewing and writing letters home for them and raising funds for comforts.

The heroic deeds of these young women, many still in their early teens, have been most inspiring. Clad in neat uniforms, they brave danger and death during every minute of their work in the lines. They never give way to fear, declaring that their task is to shed blood and not tears.

Chinese children also deserve mention. As the future citizens of China, they do not wish to be outdone by their elders.

Tiny tots in kindergartens are saving a cent a day from their meals so that the money thus secured can be used for purchasing gifts for wounded soldiers in hospitals or for the maintenance of refugee children.

MANY ORGANISATIONS have been formed in various localities to feed, clothe, and educate the innumerable war orphans.

Of particular interest is the one started by Madame Chiang Kai-shek which has as its immediate objective the care of 20,000 orphans from the war areas.

China's journalists, authors, cartoonists, actors and artists and even singing girls have all organised themselves to play their part in this life and death struggle of their country.

Doctors and trained nurses are not numerous in China but today

"BUNKERED" IN MAKING WILLH. Vardon's £11,000
EstateJUDGE & "UNHAPPY"
USE OF FORM

When the will of Harry Vardon, the golfer, was discussed in the Chancery Division recently it was suggested, amid laughter, that in making it he had "got bunkered at every turn."

Mr. Vardon, who died on March 20, 1937, left estate valued at £11,000, which he disposed of by a will written in ink on a printed form.

The matter came before Mr. Justice Farwell on a summons taken out by Mr. Arthur Brown, an executor and trustee of the estate, which raised questions of construction of the will.

Mr. E. M. Winterbotham, for Mr. Brown, said that the testator, Mr. Henry William Vardon, was more commonly known as "Harry" Vardon.

"I seem to have heard the name," commented Mr. Justice Farwell.

"HOME-DRAWN DOCUMENT"

Mr. Winterbotham said that the will was a home-drawn document of a very peculiar type. It read:

"I give and bequeath unto my wife, Jessie Vardon, all my household furniture and house, also £400 a year.

"My medals I should like to go to a museum or some such place in Jersey, where they have these things always."

After disposing of a trophy to a niece, the will continued:

"I should like to know that my other prizes should be looked after and not given away any old way."

"Same as pictures. There are some that will become valuable later on. There are in the drawers valuable things if sorted out."

"I would like Doris Williams to have a choice of cup and £200. All my mounted golf balls to be given to A. Brown if he would like them."

"Then I hope that when my wife departs she will see the money will be divided between my sister and brothers and nephew and nieces."

Mr. Justice Farwell: Not a very good effort!

Mr. Winterbotham, said that Mr. Vardon had six brothers, two of whom were dead, and two sisters. There were a number of nephews and nieces.

WRITING CRITICISED

Mr. G. Upjohn, for a nephew, argued that "nephew" in the will ought to read "nephews."

It was not plain whether the document was in Mr. Vardon's handwriting or someone else's.

"It starts off in a bold and flowing hand and it gets worse," said Mr. Upjohn. "It is quite plain that as he goes on writing it gets worse and deteriorates rapidly till it gets very bad towards the end."

Mr. Justice Farwell: Oh, not very bad! It is legible, and that is more than can be said of every body.

Giving judgment, Mr. Justice Farwell said that it was another instance of the unhappy use of a will which could be purchased for a small sum at a stationer's shop.

Mr. Vardon, or someone on his behalf, had endeavoured to express his ultimate wishes in a homely way.

"The only result," said the judge, "has been that he has entirely failed, in my view, to express his wishes in any way that is effective so far as the residue of his estate is concerned."

His lordship found that there were effective bequests of the house and furniture and an annuity of £400 to the widow, and of £200 to Doris Williams. The residue was undisposed of.

CHUNG SHING

The Chung Shing Bathing Shed at Kennedy Town will open for the swimming season on Sunday, at 2 p.m.

700 of them are assisting the Chinese Army Medical Service to look after the wounded soldiers.

The Chinese Red Cross, as the result of the war, has discarded its loose organisation in favour of a war-time pattern under which greater services can be rendered on a larger scale.

It would take many pages to describe all that is being done by her people for China in her hour of need but suffice to say China in the spring of 1938 is stronger, better organised and more solidly united than ever before.

Invaders Use Tear Gas Bombs When Doomed

A detachment of Chinese troops, charging on the Japanese positions with hand-grenades, light machine-guns and fixed bayonets, were greeted by a suffocating and irritating fume released from exploding gas bombs hurled from Japanese batteries.

Unity Achieved In Manner Unknown Before

Even should the war result in a victory for Japan, this would by no means be conclusive in the sense of establishing a permanent state of affairs.

On the contrary, the world is now witnessing the reawakening of China and the Chinese people are now achieving its unity in a manner unknown in all the long centuries of its history.—(Trans-ocean).

Industry in Nantungchow, situated on the north bank of the Yangtze River opposite Changshu has been completely paralyzed since the occupation of the town by Japanese troops on March 17.

Immediately after their entry into the town, all cotton mills were forcibly occupied. Normally between 50,000 and 60,000 labourers were in the employ of these mills. One thousand two hundred criminals imprisoned in the prisons were set free by the Japanese. They were forced to do manual labour for them.

The Nantungchow magistrat withdrew with the city's police force on the day of the Japanese occupation. He is at present leading the force which has been reinforced by a number of able-bodied youths to harass the Japanese in the vicinity of the city. (Central News)

SPORTING NEWS AND NOTES

New Tennis Champion

TSUI WAI-PUT'S GREAT GAME

Rumjahn's Fine First Set Before Exit

By Ex-Tennis

TSUI Wai-put beat H. D. Rumjahn by 6-6, 6-0, 6-3, 6-2 to win the Singles Championship of the Colony.

"TOO GOOD, TSUI: YOU WERE TOO GOOD."

In these words, H.D. Rumjahn, fine tennis player and finer sportsman, acknowledged defeat and the wrestling of his singles crown by Tsui Wai-put, Chinese Davis Cupper, before a large and distinguished crowd including H.E. the Governor, on the Stand Court of the Hong Kong Cricket Club ground yesterday.

And the reply was: "Yes, but I never did so much running before." That just about sums up a game which, except for an exhilarating first set, went as expected.

Tsui was absolutely too good. He was the complete tennis player. Always excepting that first set, he was Rumjahn's master. Drives, running and standing, volleys on both hands and above all a magnificently-controlled drop shot—they were much too much for H.D.

Yet the "great never-say-die" spirit of the champion (or rather ex-champion) never flagged. He chased all sorts and conditions of shots and if he was practically run off his feet at the end, he nevertheless gave the new champion lots of work too.

Comparison of the first set with the other three shows an amazing fluctuation of form.

GOOD VS. SUPERB

In this first stanza Tsui played good tennis but H.D. was superb. From the start he carried the war into the enemy's camp. He would return service with a deep drive to either hand, advance a few steps, drive the return to the corner opposite that to which the ball had first been directed, so right up to the net and there bring off a winning volley.

FOURTH EXTRA RACE MEETING NOTES

Entire Programme Of Handicap Events

Keen Racing Assured

By "Last Quarter"

The Fourth Extra Race Meeting of the Hong Kong Jockey Club which takes place tomorrow afternoon should provide excellent racing as it is well-supported in the way of entries and the programme consists only of handicap events, which invariably presents punters with a few difficult problems in the selection of the probable winners. There are several sprint events and it is in these that fair dividends may be forthcoming in view of the even chances of the various ponies.

Despite the mid-week typhoon threat, the weather appears promising and the rain should prove extremely beneficial to the track. Messrs. Needa and Chanson returned to Shanghai last week and will be somewhat missed, but I have it on good authority that their absence is only temporary and that both these popular jockeys anticipate returning in the near future and making their permanent home in the Colony.

MOUNT GOUGH HANDICAP

Though there are only six entries for the opening event over six furlongs for "A" Class China ponies, I believe all the contenders will be saddled and sent to the post. Two old rivals in Oak Bay and Gladiator should fight out the issue between them. My vote goes to the former as this grey sprinter is most difficult to beat over this distance and is in excellent condition at the moment.

I must honestly state that I know very little of the form of Soldier of Britain as no matter how early I manage to get down to the course this old grey battler somehow has finished his work a trifle earlier. Should Mr. Pih take out this pony, who has only 140 lbs. to carry, the combination will be near, especially if ridden from behind.

Of the others Wild Life is about the best though the rest Trent-bridge has had many prove beneficial. Cossack's Beauty has not been prominent of late and I shall not be surprised to see him in a lower class before long.

CHARTERS TOWERS HANDICAP

Punters would do well not to give this Australian "B" class event a miss as I believe it will be one of the best races of the afternoon. The field will probably consist of the entire 15 entrants and at least half a dozen of them appear to have a chance of carrying off the honours. Home Brew, recently demoted, is the first one to command attention as this bay has been galloping extremely well and has returned several excellent times during training mornings. Ranger has also been relegated but I have not seen this pony in action recently and cannot vouch for present form.

However, as my recollection goes, this bay practically walked away from a field composed mainly of "B" Class ponies late last season, even though carrying top weight. Katinka has failed to impress especially at the last meeting, but the distance is much more suitable this time and this bay mare is looking quite fit.

If the going is sticky I recommend a small bet each way on Bag Tor.

Amongst this year's Australians that are entered, I rather like Criffl, who will be making his first appearance since the Annual Meeting. Little Audrey was second to Vixen Tor in practically an identical field at the Easter Meeting and will be very near again. Lucky Lad also has a fair chance and should secure a place.

No more nerves?

Not since I started with SANATOGEN

Nervousness, fatigue, forgetfulness and many other symptoms often hamper the full enjoyment of life. You can become fit and healthy again with a course of Sanatogen.

Sanatogen contains just those elements which give new health and energy to the run-down organism in a very digestible form. It strengthens the nerves, renews the red blood cells and thus gives new strength and stamina to the whole system.

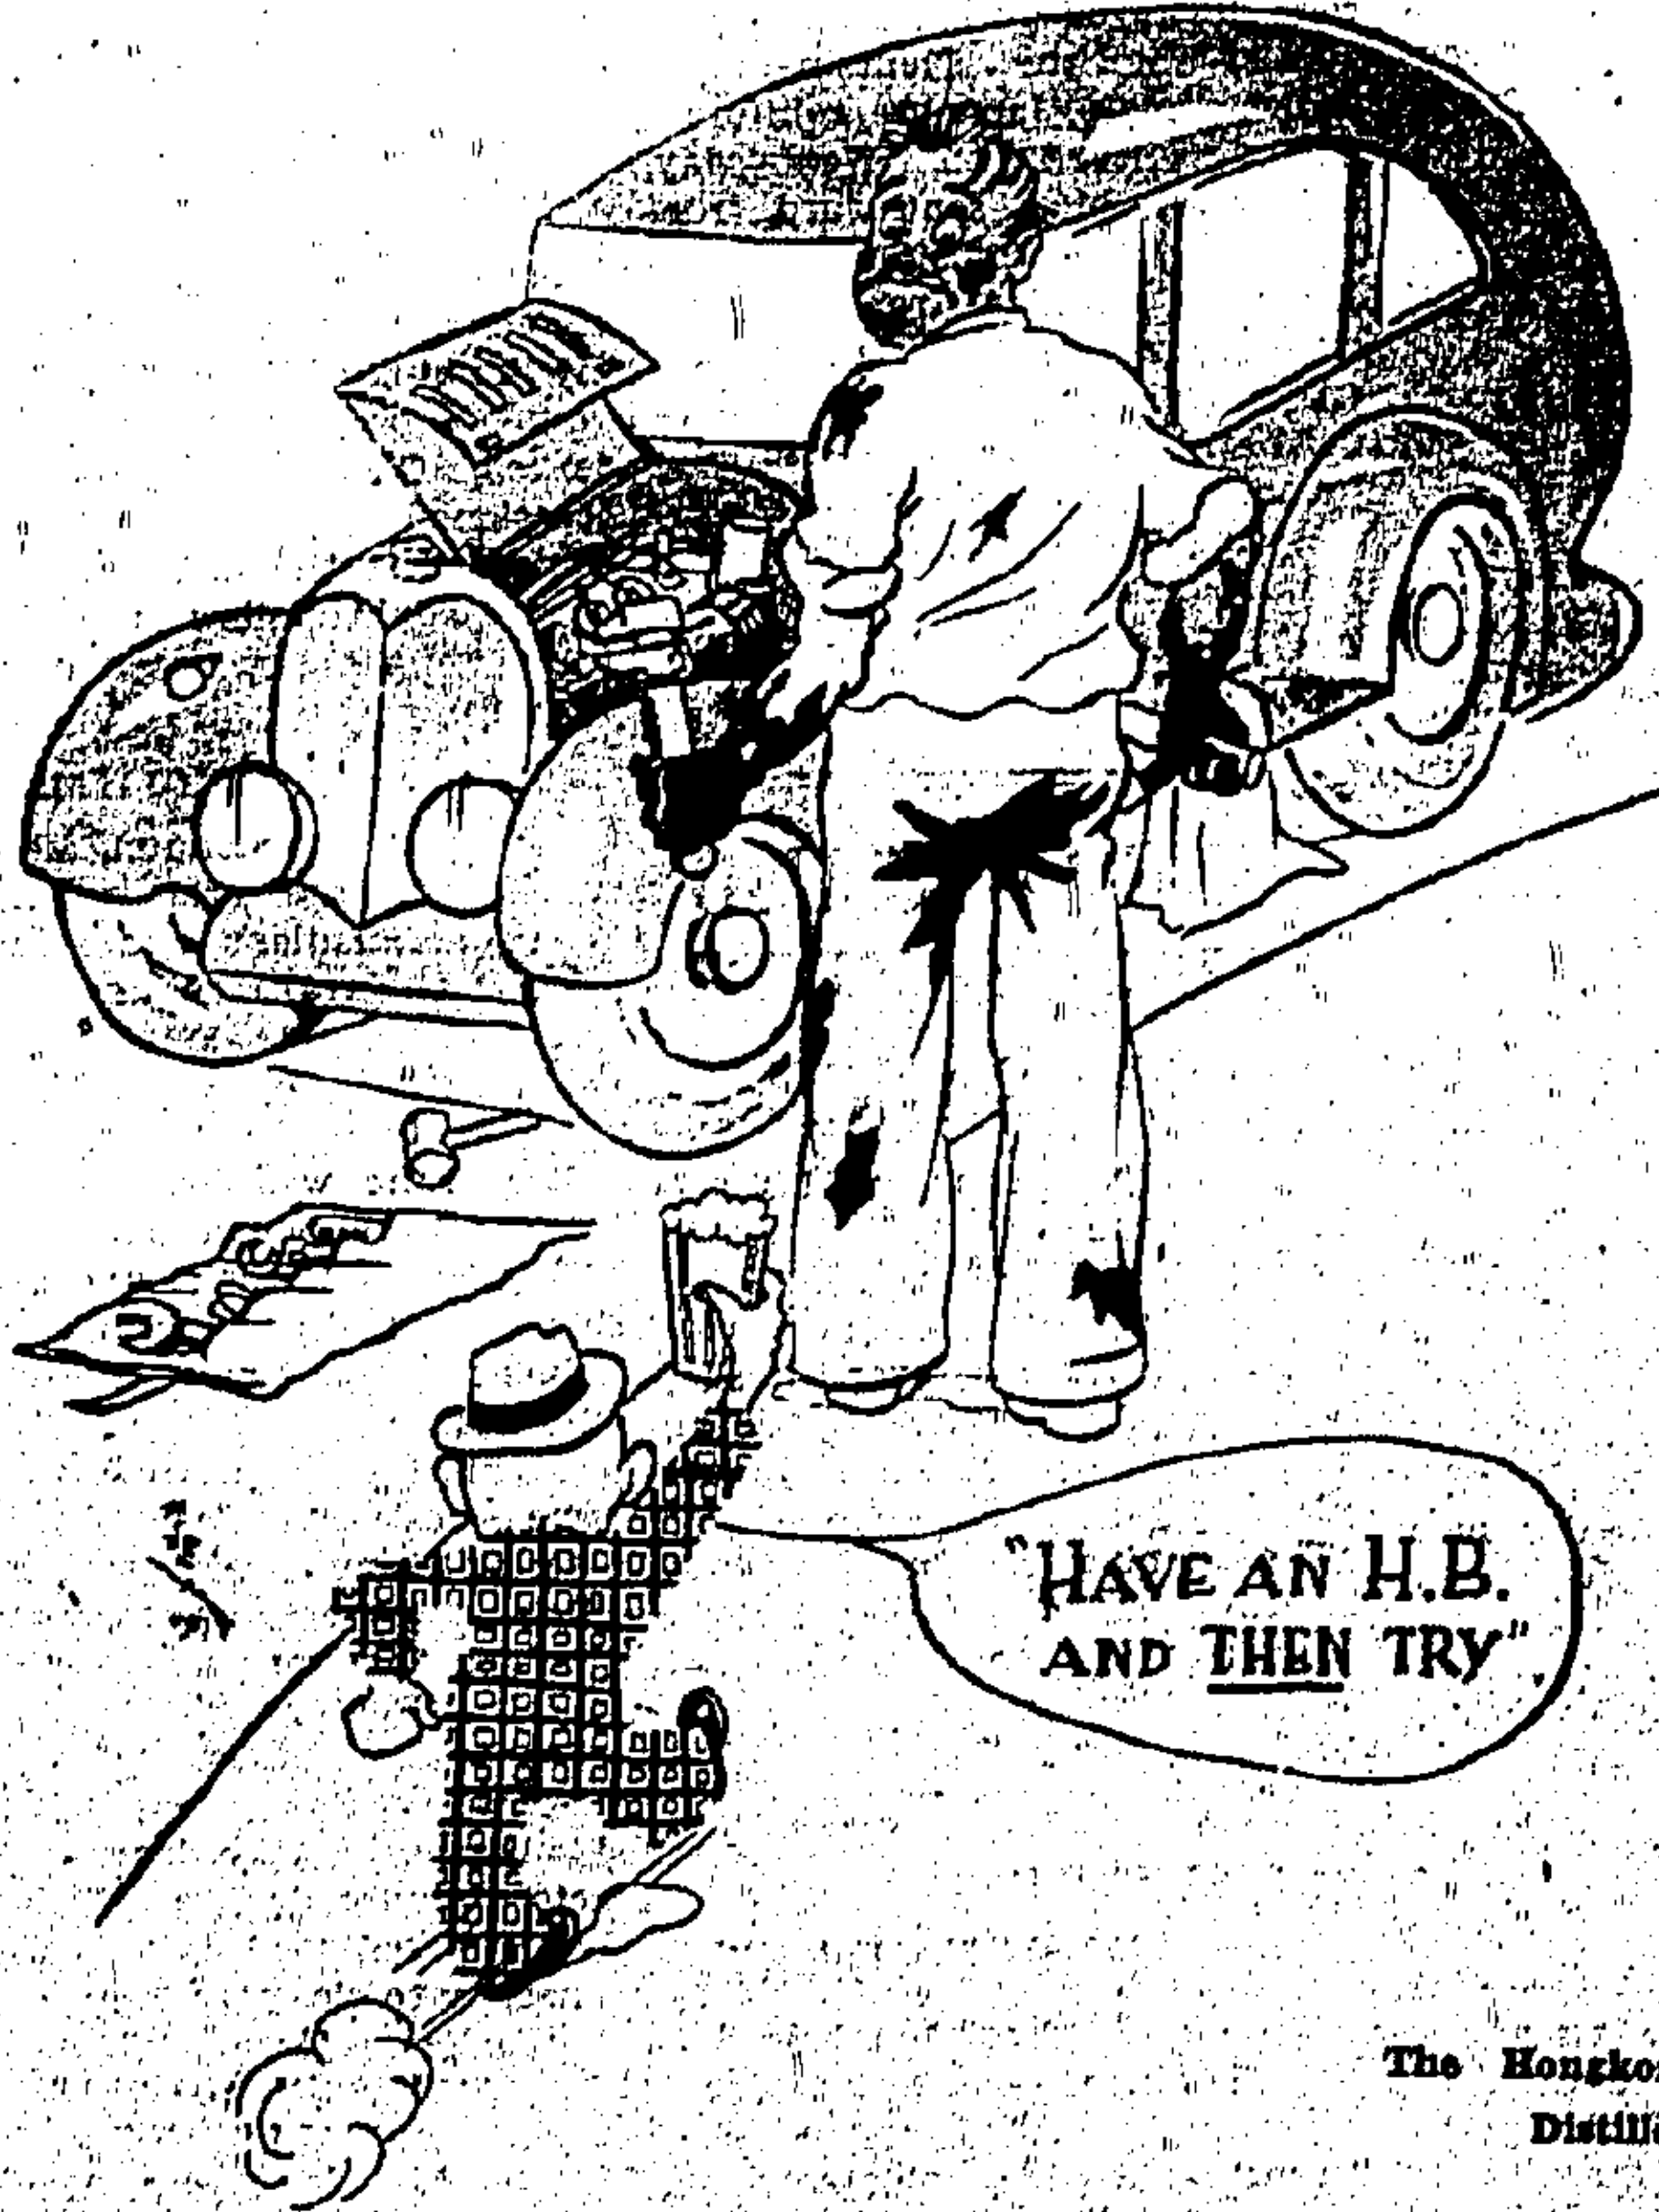

Prof. Tobold, a well-known European authority, wrote:

"Those who are suffering from nervous weakness will soon regain their former strength and joy of life."

Try Sanatogen at once. Buy it to-day and see how quickly Health and Vitality return.

CHIEF JUSTICE MAKES FLAG DAY APPEAL

Praises Work Of St. John Ambulance Over Z.B.W.

"I want this evening to tell you a little about the work that is being done in our midst by the members of the St. John Ambulance Association and Brigade. At first sight such a talk as this perhaps seems utterly unnecessary. We all know the grand work they are doing."

"Wherever one goes in Hong Kong, at the racecourse, at every football match, on the bathing beaches and wherever crowds congregate we know that the Brigade will be represented; that first aid will be rapidly and efficiently given wherever it is needed, and that for more serious cases the Association's ambulances are available day or night and free of all charge."

Thus did His Honour the Chief Justice of Hong Kong, Sir Atholl MacGregor, begin his appeal, broadcast over Z.B.W. last night, on behalf of the St. John Ambulance Flag Day to be held tomorrow to raise funds.

The following is the full text of the address:—

We know of the incessant and unsparring help which the Brigade rendered during the cholera epidemic, when they inoculated no fewer than 11,467 persons, and we cannot help being aware of what they are doing to assist in stamping out the small-pox which is unhappily still with us. Already they have vaccinated over half a million people, and that number is ever increasing.

All this we know, all this is almost a commonplace to every inhabitant of Hong Kong. But do we really appreciate the invaluable services which the Association and Brigade render to everyone of us? I am afraid that so far as the vast majority of us are concerned, the answer must be emphatically and unhesitatingly no, at least so far as that appreciation is expressed in terms of financial help.

Great as is the work which this, the oldest of the orders of chivalry, is doing there is still much more which ought to be done and which the Association is anxious to do, but they are hampered and hampered seriously by lack of funds, and unless things improve financially not only will further activities be impossible, but existing work may have to be curtailed.

COURSES OF TRAINING

I have spoken of some of the more public activities of the Association. Let me say a few words of some of the other work they are doing. Fields of service which are not so well-known because they are less in the public eye.

The Association conducts classes in First Aid and Home Nursing and also gives instruction in these very useful subjects in many of the schools of the Colony. The classes are very largely attended, and last year no fewer than 1,135 young men and women qualified in one or other of these subjects. But that does not express all the educational side of the work.

Courses of anti-gas lectures have been given in Chinese and have been regularly attended by hundreds. An Air Raid Precautions course has been instituted, and already 69 men have qualified and are available for service in time of need. Safety First classes are also held, at which instruction is given in such simple but necessary matters as how to cross a street and how to get on to and off a tram-car.

I need not stress the importance of such instruction as this, particularly the Anti-Gas and Air Raid Precautions work, in a crowded city like this. It is work which can be done only by Chinese, who can talk to and understand their own people who form the bulk of our population. The Association is anxious to train for these duties a sufficient number of men to act on an emergency in any part of the Colony, but unless much more money is made available they will have to forego this most valuable instruction.

THE BRIGADE

The Brigade today is 700 strong. Our aim is to have a unit of 1000 men, and the same number of nurses trained and fit for any emergency. That surely is not an excessive number for so great a population as ours, but unless you will all help to the utmost of your ability that increase in number must remain no more than a dream and an aspiration for although service is free and voluntary, uniforms and equipment cost money.

I have spoken already of the Association's ambulance service. They maintain ambulances in Victoria, which are available to the public free of charge. Last year they carried 2,074 patients to hospitals and covered 39,000 miles. There is also an ambulance stationritories which transports patients from isolated villages to the St. John Cottage Hospital or into Hong Kong.

The Association also maintains three hospitals, six clinics and an accident station, at which, during 1937, 1,302 maternity cases and 129,437 general cases were dealt with. Were it not for these institutions thousands of the villagers in the New Territories and large numbers of the fisher folk of the Colony would have no medical services available to them. The Haw Par Hospital at Cheung Chau, which is financed by the generous benefactor, whose name it bears, dealt with 339 maternity cases and 32,368 general cases, and I am happy to tell you that already it has proved so beneficial for cases of tuberculosis in children that Messrs. Aw Boon Haw and Aw Boon Par have provided additional funds for open sunlit wards to accommodate a further fifty beds.

CLINICS' WORK

Unhappily the clinics have not been so fortunate. During 1937 the nurse had to be withdrawn from Tungkong, and it was not possible to station a full-time nurse at Tungkong, which had to depend on periodical visits from a doctor or a dresser, and the Shataukok clinic was temporarily closed except for a dresser. It has now been found possible again to station a nurse at Shataukok, but the inhabitants of the other areas I have mentioned have to depend on occasional visits instead of having a resident nurse, and the only reason for this curtailment of activities is financial.

Most of the areas served by clinics are severely material, and the closing of even the smallest of our clinics is nothing short of a calamity. Surely it is not too much to ask that we should put the Association in the financial position to banish forever the haunting dread of any such disaster. Make no mistake about it. The activities of the Association, its hospitals, clinics and ambulances are maintained entirely by public generosity, by individual donations supplemented by a flag day, an annual ball, and an occasional bridge and mah-jongg drive. Damage done by the Typhoon of 1937 and increased expenditure necessitated by the cholera and small-pox epidemics, and the influx of poor and sick refugees from China have sadly depleted our financial resources, and unless much more money comes in the Association will be compelled to close some if not all of its clinics and so bring pain and suffering to many innocent villagers.

FLAG DAY

The Association and its Brigade are keen and capable and ever-ready. Were it possible to increase the Brigade's numbers there would be no difficulty in getting suitable young men and women. All that is needed is the money to enable their great work for humanity to continue and expand.

H.E. the Governor, who is a Knight of Grace of the Order of St. John is President of the Association and Patron of the Brigade, and Lady Northcote is Patroness and Lady Superintendent of the Nursing Divisions.

On Saturday morning, a Flag Day will be held to raise funds for the work of the Association. I sincerely hope that in this necessarily brief outline I have said enough to convince each of you of the value of that work. I do earnestly ask you to remember Saturday morning and to give generously so that the work may continue.

RIFLE SHOOTING

N.R.A. Team's Double Win In Channel Islands

The National Rifle Association team which has been touring the Channel Islands during Easter returned home on April 19 having won its matches against both Guernsey and Jersey.

This double success has not been achieved since the first team which went out, commanded by Commander Sir Lionel Fletcher, in 1935. In 1936 Colonel H. A. Mann's team beat Jersey, but lost to Guernsey; and last year the team, again commanded by Colonel Mann, lost both matches.

The weather in Jersey on Monday was bright and sunny, but cold. There was a strong steady wind blowing from the left across the range. Apparently the conditions were to the liking of the team commanded by the Staffordshire International, Captain T. S. Smith, for they led from the start and won by 26 points. The scores were:—

The Jersey and Guernsey rifle associations are now looking forward to the visit, some time in May, of a team composed of members of the National Rifle Association Council.

WEEK'S TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

The Police Traffic Office reports that 51 traffic accidents occurred in the Colony last week. This resulted in the death of three persons and injury to 27.

Of those killed, a Chinese male, aged 52 years, died from injuries received whilst alighting from a moving motor bus.

A Chinese girl, aged 7 years, was knocked down and killed by a motor lorry whilst running across the road.

A Chinese male, aged about 35 years, was knocked down and killed by a tramcar whilst walking across the road.

PUSH ON PHILIPPINE ISLANDS FORESEEN

If the Philippine Islands are given their independence, desperate economic conditions will result, with possible revolutions, the American Academy of Political and Social Science was told by Col. Theodore Roosevelt at a recent session.

"Business will stagnate, and the standards of living will have to fall to the level of the surrounding Asiatic countries," he said. Further, he declared that internationally the Islands can hardly remain independent, for they are of strategic importance, have valuable natural resources and are in no position to resist any first rate power.

"From the United States standpoint, we have committed the most desperate of all governmental errors—we have surrendered, aut-

ANOTHER TILT AT REDHEADS

Tilting at "ginger-haired" girls is as old as Adam. It has been left, however, to an insurance agent in Melbourne to pronounce on the difficulties experienced in the insurance business if the prospect happens to be a "redhead."

Giving evidence before the Insurance Commission an expert explained insurance agents' technique in picking likely clients.

"Dark-haired people are sitting shots," he said. "Fair-haired ones are not so easy, but redheads are the limit. You need three men to deal with them, and then not always with success."

NOBEL PRIZE WINNER DIES IN BERLIN

Karl von Ossietzky,
Opponent Of Nazis

Berlin, May 5.

Karl von Ossietzky, whose name came prominently into world notice through the controversy that followed his being awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1935 and who, prior to advent of the Nazi regime in Germany, had been sentenced to a long term of imprisonment for treason, died yesterday at Nordend Sanatorium, Berlin.

Ossietzky had been seriously ill from a pulmonary complaint for many years. In the course of the past year his condition had so considerably improved that it had even seemed that his recovery was possible. But the sudden outbreak of inflammation of the brain tissue caused his sudden death.—(Trans-ocean).

COLONY'S HEALTH

Local health returns for the 24 hours ended midnight Wednesday show nine cases of small-pox, two cases of diphtheria, two of enteric fever, four of measles, three of cerebro-spinal meningitis and one case of dysentery.

Mr. Percy Chen will be the speaker at the meeting of the Chinese Y.M.C.A. English Discussion circle tonight at 8 p.m. His subject will be "How the Japanese Army was defeated at Talerchwang." All interested are invited to attend.

ASSAULT CHARGE AGAINST TWO PORTUGUESE

The case in which J. F. Das Caldas, manager of Caldas & Co., of No. 213 Tung Choi Street, and B. Xavier, clerk, of No. 763 Nathan Road, are charged with assaulting Fung Shu-ting outside a tea-house came up for hearing before Mr. K. M. A. Barnett at the Kowloon Court yesterday.

Medical evidence was given that complainant was bleeding from the nostrils and had cuts on his upper left eyelid and the back of the ear. First defendant said in evidence that he sent for complainant twice to ask him about an allegation he had made concerning him (witness). Complainant refused but told him he would meet him at a tea-house.

Witness alleged that complainant, after speaking for a while, slapped second defendant, whereupon a fight ensued. Judgment was reserved.

STEVE BLOOMER PASSES

ONE OF ENGLAND'S BEST FOOTBALLERS

Steve Bloomer, one of the greatest footballers who ever played for England, died recently at his home in Derby. He was 64 years of age.

Except for a brief period when he assisted Middlesbrough, Bloomer spent the whole of his playing career with Derby County. He made his first appearance in League football in September 1892, and played his last match in September 1914.

As a forward he had no peer, and he was called the "Prince of Players." He played 23 times for England, and between 1895 and 1907 he made ten appearances against Scotland. In that time England beat Scotland eight times, drew twice and lost only three matches.

He was not a trick footballer. His merit lay in the speed and judgment of his passing, his ability to do the right thing instantly at any period of a match, and in his forceful and accurate shooting. In League matches he scored 352 goals, and in addition scored 28 in internationals.

MISSED ONE HONOUR

Every honour of the game fell to him, save one. He never won an English Cup medal. The only final in which he appeared was the sensational match at the Crystal Palace in April 1903, in which Derby defeated Derby County 6-0—the most decisive margin in the history of the competition.

After his playing career, Bloomer became a coach, and he was in Germany when war broke out in 1914. He was interned, and after the war he spent some time coaching in Spain.

Bloomer was a native of Cradley Heath, Staffordshire. He had been in falling health since the death of his wife four years ago. Six months ago friends in Derby raised a fund to send him on a health trip to Australia and New Zealand.

He returned from this trip only three weeks ago, when he said he felt much better. The improvement, however, was not sufficient to allow him to go out very often.

F.A. PRESIDENT'S TRIBUTE

"He was incomparable," said Mr. W. Pickford, President of the Football Association, when told of Bloomer's death.

"He was a great footballer," added Mr. Pickford, "and always seemed to keep something up his sleeve for Scotland. We could have done with him at Wembley last Saturday. I have never seen anyone as accurate as Bloomer in placing the ball just where he wanted it to go."

Easy Way

Nothing can be more distracting to a woman than ugly pimples, burning irritations or patches of blackheads or enlarged pores on the face or neck. Some resort to heavy powdering in an effort to hide them; whilst others cause the skin to become muddy-looking, coarse and blemished by using the wrong treatment.

To make your skin clear and healthy, to cleanse clogged facial pores, remove blackheads and pimples and to make your complexion clearer and smoother, use Cuticura.

Cleanse the skin with Cuticura Soap twice a day. Its luxuriant and mildly antiseptic lather is soothing and softening; washes away pore-deep dirt which causes blackheads, enlarged pores and ugly complexion defects.

To rid the skin of pimples, skin outbreaks, rashes or irritations use Cuticura Ointment direct on the affected part before washing with the soap. Its antiseptic action kills germs, soothes and heals and quickly clears the skin.

ATLANTIC AIR MAIL

U.S. Impatient Of Delay

American flying companies are impatient to start carrying mail between the United States and Europe this summer, whether Imperial Airways is prepared to do so or not.

The question is frankly discussed by the well-informed aviation correspondent of the New York Times.

According to the New York Times, "If the British insist on the American flag line delaying another year or two until Imperial Airways perfects its planes, before the opening of a New York-Southampton service, the Post Office Department, it is understood, is willing to ask for bids on air mail lines."

The Department already has $400,000 available for air mail subsidies. Government officials are anxious that no time should be lost in establishing the United States as one of the leading countries engaged in flying the Atlantic.

EGYPTIAN COTTON TARIFF PROTEST

Cairo, May 5.

The British Ambassador, Sir Miles Lampson, visited the Prime Minister, Mohamed Mahmoud, this morning and handed over a letter containing His Majesty's Government's strong representations against the new Egyptian tariffs against British cotton goods.

The Lancashire and Indian industries have been greatly affected by the Egyptian tariff.—(Reuters).

MARKED DRIFT FROM THE LAND

Though the drift from the land began later in France than in Britain, it is very marked. In 1846 75 per cent. of the population lived in communes of under 200 inhabitants. By 1906 the proportion had fallen to 57 and by 1928 to 50.3. Today it is considerably lower than in 1928. One estimate puts the rural population today at 16,500,000, or 41 per cent. of the whole.

The number of people in France actually engaged in agriculture is nearly 8 million. By our standards this is a very high proportion of the rural population, but it has to be remembered that great numbers of women work on the land in France.

Side by side with the decline in rural population has gone a growth in the average size of farms, though they are for the most part still tiny by English and still more so, by Australian standards. In 1892 the average area of holdings was 15 acres; in 1929 it had risen to 29.

Of the 5,750,000 farms in France today only a million have an area of more than 25 acres. Those over 125 acres number 114,000.

As might be expected from the size of the holding vegetable growing is very largely developed. In 1934 there were 1,250,000 acres under vegetables, of which 60 per cent. was cultivated by professional market gardeners, and 40 by non-specialist farmers. Jerusalem artichokes, with their yellow flowers and dark-green leaves, stand the landscape, and flavor the soup of Southern and Central France, from Valence to Bayonne.

There are 330,000 acres of them. Carrots, tomatoes and onions are produced in vast quantities.

France has 1,850,000 vine-growers. The vineyards contribute over 10 per cent. of the value of France's agricultural productions. With cider in the apple region of Brittany and Normandy the ordinary wine is as normal and regular an article of French consumption as tea is in England or Australia.

By growing his own drink the Frenchman keeps his money in the country. Bubbly stuff like champagne and luxury wines like claret and Burgundy he exports largely, especially to England.

RACE MEETING

There are several sprinters such as Aztec, Derby Day and Dick Turpin but I doubt if they will stand up to it in the last quarter especially if the race should be a fast one.

TAINOSHAN HANDICAP—
FIRST SECTION

Subscription grinnings of this season predominate in the "D" Class China ponies event over one mile and there should be another keen struggle. Golden Cow at the last meeting won the second section of the "D" class event in a shade faster time than the first section was run. This chestnut has been promoted but is a game racer and will take some beating even in the higher section. Several ponies will be well supported and capable of making a race of it.

Salvage Master has been placed in the best of company and showed a powerful finish three weeks ago. This grey is another grand fighter and I expect her to furnish Golden Cow with stern opposition. Desert Star has also been quite close on several occasions and will need watching. Election Time ran one of the worst races the last time out when considered as a good thing, but with 9 lbs. less tomorrow and his Macao performance of last Sunday as a criterion, this bay may make amends.

Valorous and Final Triumph are also dangerous especially the former as this grey finished quite strongly to occupy fourth place at the last meeting. Piet Hein will have a new jockey, Mr. Encarnacao, and this alone should improve his chances. The race will be one well worth watching with about six or seven ponies having a say in it at the finish.

MOUNT DAVIS HANDICAP—
FIRST SECTION

This "C" Class event for China ponies is from the 1 1/2 Mile Post, just about five furlongs, and will also be a close affair. The stars will be an important factor and I am looking to the ones capable of getting away quickly to provide the event. Laughing Girl, Amberley and Tyne are sure to be out in front by the time the Black Rock is reached and I think the issue will lie between them. Just in time is also a fair proposition and if well placed at the start will be near. Lancashire Lass can also be depended upon for a last getaway but this grey lacks that push at the finish and never makes a fight of it. King's Justice looks the best of the remaining entries.

THE HUNCHBACKS HANDICAP
Non-winning subs of the year and Novice Jockeys will be the attraction in this sprint event, which is the first leg of the Daily Double. A fairly large field will get the post and an upset is quite likely in view of the short distance. However, the ones to follow are Cape Comorin, National Dignity and Fel Ying. Mr. Gregory will be on his own pony Astrik which has an outside chance. Charybdis should also do well. Styrie and Tribute after their wins at Macao will be carrying 7 lbs. penalty each but both are capable of doing the trick, though I prefer the latter especially if he has forgotten his old bad habits.

CANTERBURY PARK HANDICAP
Despite the weight I am still inclined to believe that Twilight Star is capable of winning this six furlongs race for "C" Class Australian ponies. Zodiac who surprisingly placed on her last outing will find the distance harder, as should be the case with Discovery Bay, though the latter is rather heavily weighted. Brutus, Snowy River and Macquarie River are other likely ones and for an outsider I recommend Roofly.

TAINOSHAN HANDICAP—
SECOND SECTION

Racing Boy's performance at the last meeting still leaves me in two minds as to whether this old champion sub has at last regained his old form or that it was just another mere flash in the pan? If the former happens to be the case then this bay must undoubtedly have an excellent chance, especially since a good substitute jockey has been found in Mr. B. L. Tao.

However, at the same time I have not yet forgotten his wretched performance on the first day of the Easter meeting as well as his preliminary work on training mornings and therefore prefer to pin my hope on Good Morning who should be near winning again.

Toby Cat has been whispered as the bet for this race and I do not dislike the chances of Lord Baldwin, former Prime Minister of England.

LORD BALDWIN
PRESIDENT
OF M.C.C.

London, May 5.
Lord Baldwin was elected president of the M.C.C. at a meeting last night. (Reuter Bulletin).

HOME CRICKET

London, May 5.
Lunch scores of cricket matches played today are as follows:—
Cambridge University 25 for 0; Yorkshire 540.
Hampshire 279; Gloucestershire 182 for 5.
Lancashire 169 for 5; Worcester-shire 342.
M.C.C. 196 and 235 for 6; Surrey 647.
Australians 679 for 7 declared against Oxford University.
Somersetshire 240, Sussex 263 for 8. (Reuter).

HEARST STARTS
"NEW DEAL"REORGANISES HIS ENTERPRISES

Following his decision to dispose of a large part of his huge collection of antiques and works of art, Mr. William Randolph Hearst, the American newspaper proprietor, has appointed Mr. Clarence Shearn, an ex-Justice of the New York Supreme Court, to reorganise his vast publishing and business interests.

Explaining this step, Mr. Hearst, who is 75, states that: "Conscious of the uncertainties of life," he is anxious to "place on a more permanent basis a comprehensive plan of management for all his varied enterprises—newspapers, magazines, art objects, mines, ranches, and real estate."

"A policy of gradual liquidation as to some of the collateral and unrelated investments will be followed," the statement adds.
Mr. Hearst, however, will remain in active direction of editorial and general policy.

Diogenes. A good place investment seems a little too much for this diminutive grey. The best of the top weights appears to be Flybynight. This event is the second leg of the Daily Double.

HIGH WEST HANDICAP
Here we have a very evenly matched field of "B" Class China ponies and punters should witness an excellent race. New Star in view of his good performance at the Easter Meeting will probably start favourite and will not be far away at the finish. Red Feather has also been fast regaining form and together with Potentate will make a fight of it. Of the grinnings of the year my choice is Humdrum Eve, but as there is a sprint event at the next race meeting for "B" Class China ponies, the stable connections may reserve this chestnut for same.

Honeymoon Eve should run well in this company and Royal Scot is not a bad outsider as I clocked him recently doing a 28 quarter going quite easy. Boolat Bay is by no means outclassed and if well looked after in the jockey department should not be neglected.

MOUNT DAVIS HANDICAP—
SECOND SECTION

Night View should find the distance (approximately five furlongs) to his liking and as the weight is not excessive this black from the Lan stable should just about annex the honours. The danger will come from Laughing Buddha who is also a sprinter of no mean ability. Rose Evelyn is not a bad bet but none too good at the gate. Blister I am afraid will find the others too fast for him this time. As an outsider, especially in view of the low weight, my choice is Royal Highness.

Final selections will appear in tomorrow morning's issue of the Hong Kong Daily Press.

TSUI WAL-PUTS TRIUMPH

At this stage Tsui's backhand was very sound in defence but his forehand was far from certain and after a while H.D. realised this and played accordingly.

The tennis here was the best throughout the match, for both men were playing a great game and there was not the slightest hint of one-sidedness. H.D. led 4-2 and then had a glorious chance for 5-2, but unaccountably lost the game. With the next, however, he took no chances, and breaking through service, made it 5-3, to go out for the set in the ninth.

CHAMPION CRACKS

By this time everybody was sitting up and wondering whether there was going to be a first-class sensation, for H.D. had won the set by really great tennis, at a time when Tsui himself was playing very well.

The answer was soon supplied. With H.D. offering only "occasional" resistance, Tsui rattled off six games for a love set in under 15 minutes, to put himself on level terms.

Not only did he put himself on level terms; he seemed suddenly to have found his best form. Dominating the court, he directed drives at will and H.D. scurried from corner to corner for them.

MAGNIFICENT DROP-SHOTS

The great feature of his play, however, was not the drives but the truly amazing drop shots which he brought off with an almost uncanny certainty. They were easily the best of that type I have ever seen on a local court. They were the real thing, not the poor substitutes one sees so often, landing near the service line when executed by a player who is himself standing near his own service line.

Tsui made them from any part of the court, at any moment, and they dropped just over the net. This, and his vastly superior service, were definitely the main reasons why he had things all his own way for three-fourths of the match.

The third set found Rumjahn fighting back but 6-3 was the best he could do and in the last few games it was becoming obvious that the fourth set would provide an anti-climax. And it did.

SUMMING-UP

The game is easily summed up. Determined to prevent his younger opponent drawing first blood and "getting his tail up", when, as he probably knew, he would lose in straight sets, the champion went all out from the start. As in the semi-finals, he belied his reputation of being a slow starter, struck a length early on and though the challenger also played well, he called upon all his resources, and playing a game that can only be characterised as magnificent, took the set despite very strong opposition.

In the next set, probably having taken more out of himself than he realised, he saw his lead just snatched away by a player who was hardly recognisable as the man who had played good and even brilliant tennis earlier on. The closing stages found the challenger, confidence recovered, and strokes in perfect working order, sweep all before him. All the champion could call upon was his fighting heart; but, though this might keep a game going, it cannot win it.

RUMJAHN'S HAND
INJURY

By Ex-Tennist

In no spirit of detraction whatever of Tsui Wal-pui, new Singles champion of the Colony, but in common fairness to H. D. Rumjahn, ex-champion, I must add that the latter was playing with a hand which had far from recovered from a muscle injury sustained in a previous match.

However, to quote H.D. himself: "It would have made no difference. He would have won all the same."

OWEN HUGHES AND BARTON WIN
HANDICAP DOUBLES

Harry Owen Hughes and W. M. Barton (15) won the Hong Kong Cricket Club Handicap Doubles yesterday when they beat E. E. Story and N. L. H. Ralton (4/6) by 6-4, 6-2.
